

The image shows the exterior of a modern building with a central entrance. The entrance features a blue double door with a decorative metal grille. Above the door is a small window with a similar grille. The building's facade is composed of vertical stripes in white, yellow, and red. To the left and right of the entrance are windows with blue shutters. A large green tree is on the right side of the frame. The ground in front is paved with stone tiles, and there are small plants in the foreground.
